

Commercial

WonderWorks
Pigeon Forge, Tennessee

Amusement Facilities

WonderWorks can be described as an amusement park for the mind, incorporating science and entertainment with hands-on learning exhibits. Carpenter Wright Engineers provided structural design services for the conversion of the Dollywood Music Mansion into what appears to be a building that has fallen from the sky and landed upside down. This approximately 50,000 square foot attraction provided unique design challenges including a new sloped roof (appearing as the ground floor) above the existing building, requiring new columns to be threaded through the existing structure.

*Chosen #7 of Top 50
Strange Buildings of the World
Villageofjoy.com*

Architect: Bullock Smith & Partners, Inc.

CWE Design Offices:

Nashville
Knoxville